Inaccurate Perceptions Promoted by Western Media

Mama Hope is a non-profit organization focused on building self-sufficient communities in Sub-Saharan Africa. This video gives a snapshot of how media has misrepresented different

African ethnic groups as violent and establishes a 'reality check' with the stories of four young professionals.

Redefining Masculinity

A Call to Men is a social activist group of men who are committed to ending violence of all forms against women. At TEDWomen, Tony Porter makes a call to men everywhere: Don't "act like a man." Telling powerful stories from his own life, he shows how this mentality, drummed into so many men and boys, can lead men to disrespect, mistreat and abuse women and each other. He proposes the solution of breaking free of the "man box."

Facebook for Educators

Facebook plays a big role in the lives of students today. Due to some of the difficulties that come along with being an educator, this article seeks to guide educators on how to turn social media into opportunities for both students and educators. In particular, we want to highlight section 6, which discusses how social/digital media affects the learning styles of students in the 21st century. The pdf can be found below:

Native College Access
Video Mentorship Program

→ Collis 101

• A cohort of 14 Native American students at Dartmouth College has learned basic filmmaking skills from screenwriting to post-production editing. The short videos the Dartmouth students are creating are set on-campus and use skits to deliver pertinent "Native specific" college access information, but they also just illustrate general "college life activities". The content for the videos is dictated by the questions of real students attending St. Michaels Indian School on the Navajo Nation.
