

Unlock Your Potential with UBS

Who holds the keys to your future success? You do!

Unlock Your Potential is a personal development course aimed at ambitious women looking to make their mark and have a successful career. At UBS, we believe that such success involves more than just hard work and the right opportunities. It's also a question of developing your full potential, whether in terms of your personality, your experience or your skills.

Unlock Your Potential is a Superday event on Thursday, October 13 and Friday, October 14, which is designed to educate women in their junior year of college on the exciting and diverse internship opportunities offered throughout UBS. This event will include keynote speakers, business education, and early interviews for the internship program.

Your Qualifications:

All women in the class of 2018 (juniors) with a minimum 3.2 cumulative GPA are invited to apply online at ubs.com/graduates (job ref. 139892BR). You'll have to submit your resume by Monday, September 19 in order to be considered.

It doesn't matter what you're studying. (Really, it doesn't.) But we'd like to see evidence that you can:

- analyze a problem, take a view and come to a decision
- plan, organize and communicate well

- make things happen
- stick with a task
- work in a team
- come up with ideas

You'll need to choose 1 of the 4 business areas below when you apply, more information about these business areas can be found at ubs.com/graduates. If you fit the qualifications, we'll send you an email asking you to participate in our automated online interview in order to complete your application.

- Corporate Center
- Corporate Client Solutions (Investment Banking)
- Investor Client Services (Sales & Trading)
- Wealth Management Americas

If you do not meet the qualifications for this event, but are still interested in applying for our summer internships, please apply online directly at ubs.com/graduates
