

Meet Director Miranda Haymon

Friday May 18

9:00-10:30 am

Paganucci Lounge

Coffee and Donuts (from Lou's!) will be served

NYC-based professional director Miranda Haymon will be in residence at Dartmouth this fall, directing the Department of Theater's MainStage production of Sojourners by Mfoniso Udofia. Stop by this Friday for the chance to meet her!

Miranda Haymon is currently in residence at Roundabout Theatre Company, serving as their 2017/18 Directing Fellow. Her work has been seen at Fresh Ground Pepper, The New Ohio Theatre, The Tank, Soho Rep, The Movement Theatre Company and more. Miranda's theatre is radically inclusive, fundamentally multi-voiced, oriented towards sparking dialogue and in direct conversation with the current American state of affairs.

Written by Mfoniso Udofia as the first installment in her nine-part Ufot Play Cycle, Sojourners tells the story of the young, pregnant Abasiama Ekpeyong, a Nigerian immigrant in Houston intent on finishing her degree and returning home. As her husband becomes more and more seduced by America, she finds herself torn between what she should be accomplishing and what she wants.
