

Please share this opportunity with your friends and colleagues!

Randolph-Macon College Saturday Seminar 2005 and the Mid-Atlantic Association of Language Learning Technology

Culture in the Digital Age

Celebrate 2005: The Year of Languages
Teaching Language and culture through Technology!

We cordially invite you to celebrate 2005: The Year of Languages at our conference on teaching culture in the digital age. This year's conference will demonstrate the various uses of media and technology to bring culture and language alive both within and outside the language classroom.

If you have a presentation, teaching tips or strategies that you would like to share, let us know and we may still be able to include you!!!

Sessions include:

- Using Virtual Technology to Present Language and Culture in the Classroom
- Popular Culture, Popular Language: Internet Audio and Blogs in the French Conversation Class
- Using the Internet and Online Resources in the Classroom to teach Culture: Advantages and Challenges of Online Learning
- Internet Music and Audio resources for Spanish Teachers
- A Bird's Eye View of Current French Culture - La culture française actuelle engagée
- Speak more with less Class Time in a Foreign Language Classroom
- What to do when you syllabus is full: Using Course Management Systems to Integrate Cultural Learning Objectives into the Hybrid Setting Language Class
- Fun User Friendly Activities for the Spanish Classroom
- Teaching Writing Skills to Foreign Language Students
- How the Foreign Language Institute Uses Mentors to Add a Human Touch to Online Language Learning
- Launching a New On-line Language Placement Test
- Open Tips and Networking Group Session
- Digital FLEX-ability of Greater Richmond

March 18 - 19, 2005

Randolph-Macon College

Friday – Upstairs, Estes Dining Hall

Registration / Check in – 5:00 to 6:00

Dinner – 6:30

MAALLT Business meeting following dinner

Saturday - Haley Hall

Continental Breakfast and Saturday Seminar

Registration

Conference sessions from 9:30 to 4:00

Direct questions regarding registration to:

Katherine Sharnoff (804) 752-7297

ksharnof@rmc.edu

Susan Timberlake (804) 752-7208

Mid-Atlantic Association for Language Learning Technology

For more details, visit our website at:

<http://maallt.org>

